EARLY ANDOVER MUSICIANS

Annual Fagot Party of the Andover Natural History Society
Reviews the Part Music Has Played in the Life of Andover During Last 100 Years

Seven papers on "Some Early Andover Musicians," reminiscences of church choirs and musical students at Phillips Academy interspersed with very delightful music by Andover's musicians of today, recalled the early days when music played a large part in the religious and social life of the community, at the annual fagot party of the Andover Natural History society held last evening at the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. George T. Eaton on Bartlett street.

"Evidently no Mendelssohn or Beethoven or Wagner or Jenny Lind or Caruso has made Andover famous for birth or life or service in our historic town. But if we may judge the early Andover by what is known so far back as the memory of present residents recalls, and by its present interest in music, there must have been an active helpful musical life here," said Rev. Frederick A. Wilson, who planned the evening's program, and read an introductory paper before presenting the other speakers of the evening. His first story was of William Gottlieb Schaeffler a student in the Andover Theological seminary in 1830, and his wonderful flute which was sacrificed to pay the expenses of his education and was later restored to him by his friends. He also mentioned James R. Murray, born in Ballardvale in 1841, who after serving as a drummer boy in the Civil War, taught private pupils, was an instructor in the public schools, and played the organ in the South Church. He was also a prolific composer and four of his books were shown at last night's meeting, containing one hundred eighty-six tunes of his own composition. Some of them with his own words.

Mr. Wilson also paid the following tribute to the late Omar P. Chase, for many years president of the Andover Natural History society.

"In this meeting of the Natural History society we cannot forget the musical taste and skill of our late lamented president, Omar P. Chase. He was a prominent helper in the instrumental music of the town in the closing years of the last century. Some of you will remember the Orpheus quartette which he organized consisting of two saxophones played by himself and Mr. James Kimball, one of his most intimate out-of-town friends, and of two cornets played by David S. Lindsay and Mr. Bailey, an out-of-town architect. He also organized an orchestra of several pieces, which, at much expense, he had incorporated to distinguish it from the Andover Band Orchestra led by Mr. Arthur Bliss, for many years leader of the Andover Band. Mr. Chase's orchestra did much playing for dances and other social functions. In the early days of my ministry in the Free church, I was much indebted to Mr. Chase and members of his orchestra for assistance in special evening musical services in the church."

Other names mentioned were those of Miss Lila Abbott of the Hill, Miss Lila Millett who lived at the corner of Essex and Brook streets, Miss Mary E. Abbott also of Essex

For the holiday an extra added attraction will be presented Monday and Tuesday: two high-class super specials "My Official Wife" with Irene Rich and Conway Tearle and an extra added feature, Alexander Carr, in "April Fool," a laughland picture with genuine comedy, a laugh in every line with just enough heart throbs to make the audience sit up and take notice.

On Wednesday and Thursday there will be another double feature program, a Jack London story featuring, Ralph Ince in "The Sea Wolf," and "The Flaming Forest," with Antonio Moreno and Renee Adoree, a program par excellence.

In the matter of Sunday movies the petitions have been presented to the Hon. Board of Selectmen and will be decided at a Public Hearing which will be held in the near future.

"My Official Wife," the melo-dramatic picture, which comes to the Colonial Theatre on Monday for a run of two days, is the first American production to be made by Paul Stein, the Austrian director, who was imported to this country by Warner Bros. and who has been hailed as a second Lubitsch.

The story he has handled deals with Petrograd and Vienna before the war. Helene, Countess Orloff, is affianced to Ivan, a Russian nobleman, and they have an engagement to go to a masquerade ball together. Ivan, however, has mixed his dates, and he finds it more important to his happiness to keep an engagement for that evening with a notorious demi-mondaine, and she results, Helene, who is wearing a peasant costume, decides to go to the ball alone.

Her peasant disguise and her distinguished beauty take the eye of six roystering young nobles, who force her to accompany them to a wayside inn. There, is a riotous orgy, they cast lots for her, and she is won by a Grand Duke's son, named Alexander.

She escapes a dawn and at home confesses her humiliation to her father and Ivan. They are furious and Ivan breaks his engagement. Helene swears revenge upon her betrayer, and the sensational story that develops is full of incident that ranges from the road to Siberia, to the gay cafes of Vienna, back through the turmoil of postwar Russia.

Irene Rich, who embarked upon a career of playing gay Continental ladies when she scored her big success as the erring mother in "Lady Windermere's Fan," has a vividly picturesque role as Helene, and she acts up to the hilt. Conway Tearle adds another excellent portrait to his long gallery of screen heroes, as the gay and festive Alexander. Jane Winton is cast as the lady of the half-world, who toys with his affections; Gustav von Seyffertitz as the Grand Duke; Stuart Holmes as Ivan; Emil Chautard as Count Orloff, and John Miljan, as Nicholas, one of the roystering noblemen.

The picture is founded upon Archibald Clavering Gunter's story, which was made into a stage play by Graham Disney. The screen version is by Charles Baker.

Alexander Carr of "Potash and Perlmutter" fame, who seems to have forsaken the stage permanently for the screen, will be seen locally again next week when his late screen production, "April Fool" will be the feature attraction at the Colonial Theatre on Monday.

Carr, who was a vaudeville and legitimate stage comedy star of note before his screen debut, seems to have found a broader field for his talents in the silent drama. We of the great screen audience are pleased with his choice, for we may now look forward to a visit from him via the celluloid perhaps four or five times a year. Formerly, we were lucky to attract him once in a like period.

"April Fool," which is billed as a Chadwick First Division Picture is Zion Meyer's adaptation of the play, "April Showers," by Edgar Allan Woolf and Alexander Carr, which served as a stage vehicle for the latter recently. Those of us who were fortunate to see the play on the stage will look forward with much hope for the screen version. The play itself was a gem, but much that was suggested or implied in the stage production promises a greater treat in its actual performance.

Mr. Ross, who directed the production for Chadwick Pictures Corporation, has chosen a cast of capable and popular players, of whom much may be expected. Baby Peggy, Pat Moore and Leon Holmes, three of the brightest kids of the screen, who appear in the earlier episodes, grow up into Duane Thompson, Edward Phillips and Raymond Keane, three juveniles who seem to be climbing rapidly toward stardom. Mary Alden, who first attained prominence in "The Birth of a Nation," Snitz Edwards, who supplied much of the comedy in Fairbanks' "The Thief of Bagdad," and Nat Carr, brother of Alexander, are among the others.

REPERTORY THEATRE
The popularity of Sir James Barrie's plays is so persistent that the mere announcement of the production or revival of one of his comedies attracts wide attention. For the second time this season the Repertory Theatre will produce one of the plays by this great dramatist. His "Quality Street" which will begin a run of two weeks at the Repertory Theatre on Monday is filled with pathos, fancy and wit, and it has received continuous favor since it was first acted with Maude Adams in the leading character.

Quaintness and sentiment are the prevailing characteristics of "Quality Street." The story is a pretty one, and it is related by the dramatist with an unflagging zest for refinement, tenderness and truth. The gentle personality of Phoebe Throssel is shown against a background of humble domestic life in an English village. Phoebe and her sister Susan are demure and lovable damsels, and the unfolding of the plot shows them in the midst of their own home, the period of the play being the time of the Napoleonic wars. Thus there is opportunity for picturesque scenic effects and for quaint old-time costumes.

The admirers of Sir James Barrie are certain to like his "Quality Street" no less than the "Little Minister," "A Kiss for Cinderella" or "What Every Woman

THE ANDOVER TOWNSMAN

Looking Back Twenty-five Years

A very pleasant social was held at Christ church parish house on Tuesday evening. Those in charge were Miss Pleadwell, Miss Brooks, Miss Thomson, Miss Baldwin and Mrs. F. H. Knight.

One of the first, if not the very first indoor basketball game of any moment will be played in the Town hall tomorrow evening between the new Phillips academy team and the team representing Harvard freshmen.

A large amount of land in West Andover has been placed on the market. It has been plotted into house lots, 800 in number, and the village is to be called Lakeside. Names have been applied to the streets which appear on the map on file at the Lawrence registry of deeds as follows: Revere, Maplewood, Woodlawn, Sycamore, Bristol, Centre, Hawthorne, Plymouth, Tremont, Densmore, Admiral, Liberty and Cypress streets. The land is situated west of Haggerty's pond near the railroad station on the Boston & Lowell line and is owned by John M. Hathaway of New Bedford.

Mrs. George A. Parker has been in Cambridge for the past week.

Joseph L. Burns spent Sunday with a party of friends at Lakeside.

Miss Nellie F. Flint entertained friends at a very pleasant heart party last Friday evening.

One person is dead, one fatally injured, twelve or fifteen seriously injured and twenty-two slightly injured as a result of the tardy discharge of an imperfectly connected blast of dynamite where the new electric road is being constructed by L. N. Farnum for the Boston & Northern company through North Andover.

Thomas F. Paradise of New York City has leased the Downs residence on High street, through the Rogers Agency.

Frank E. Gleason has recently purchased the coal business including the coal sheds on Railroad street from George W. Chandler.

A very pleasant evening was passed at the home of Mrs. Frank D. Valpey on Beacon street, Lawrence, Wednesday evening, when Mrs. Valpey entertained a large number of her friends with a Valentine whist. There were nine tables used for whist. The prizes fell to the following: Mr. Leonard B. Kershaw; Mrs. Laura Gertrude Valpey, Mrs. George Morris, Lillian Sawyer, Bert Libbey, Mrs. Charles Russell, Fred Green, George Burnham and Dr. Cutter.

At the regular meeting of the Andover Mother's club held in the John Dovey parlors, the following magazine articles were read: "Holidays in the Home," by Mrs. Albert W. Lowe; "Parent and Child," by Mrs. Frank H. Hardy; "How a Parent May Ruin Character," Mrs. G. A. Andrews; "How a Parent Can Help School Children," by Mrs. C. R. Ralph. Tea and cake were served by Mrs. Newton Jaquith, Jr., Mrs. Patrick Madden, Mrs. Lincoln Cates, Mrs. James Holden, and Mrs. Frank M. Foster.

Last Saturday afternoon and evening, the Andover Girls' club held a most successful card party and ice-cream sale in the Guild House. In the cozy sitting-room, Miss Tyler presided at the table, while in the other rooms, Miss Cornelia Gould and Miss Florence Merrill with their assistants offered delicious home-made candy of many kinds.

Miss Ryder's table of cakes was an attractive sight. Miss Flint's Jack Homer pie provided surprising plums, and Miss Parker's ice-cream proved too popular for the supply.

The lower Town hall was filled on Monday evening with a representative gathering knows." The part of Phoebe Throssel will be acted by Viva Tattersall at the Repertory Theatre, and others in important roles will be Ruth Taylor, Agnes Elliot Scott, Augusta Clark, Helen H. Kelley, William Kershaw, Louis Leon Hall, Guy Phillips, Mark Schwebel and William Faversham Jr., and Ralph Roberts.

The annual Shakespearean production at the Repertory Theatre will be on Monday evening, March 7, and the play will be the great tragedy of "Macbeth." It will be effectively cast, and promises to be a notable revival of this masterpiece.

To Give Concert at North Parish Church

Music lovers will appreciate a concert to be given in the North Parish church at North Andover on Thursday evening, February 24th, at eight o'clock. The program will include: Antonio Gerardi, violinist, and Henri Fabrizio, cellist, both of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, will play, assisted by Mr. Moses T. Stevens at the piano. A pleasing program of solo and trio selections has been arranged.

Tickets at one dollar may be obtained of Miss Catherine Berry at the office of Smart & Flag, Andover, or at the church on the evening of the concert.

Young People of St. Augustine's Parish Form Dramatic Club

A number of the younger people of St. Augustine's parish met in the basement of the church on Monday evening and formed the St. Augustine's Drama club. The following officers were elected: James Dyer, president; Honora Cronin, vice president; Betty Winters, secretary; and Henry Dolan, treasurer. The governing board will consist of the four officers and Miss Katherine Cronin, Miss Annie G. Donovan, Miss Augustine P. Sullivan, James Dyer, Miss Betty Winters and William A. Doherty will comprise the publicity committee.

The club voted to hold its meetings in the Knights of Columbus hall on the first and third Monday evenings of the month at 7:30 o'clock. Rev. Fr. Charles A. Branton O. S. A. part of the church will direct the club in its plays. The first affair to be staged by the club will be an hour's entertainment in the Town hall on St. Patrick's night. This will take up a part of the program scheduled for the evening and will follow a short entertainment to be given by the pupils of the parochial school. General dancing will follow.

The members of the club are: Misses Eva Bourassa, Anna Hennessey, Mary O'Brien, Katherine Sweeney, Elizabeth Buss, Mary Mullally, Katherine Barrett, Alice Barrett, Anna Leary, Bridget Whelan, Rita Sirois, Moira Murphy, Ethel Polgreen, Hazel Polgreen, Rose McCartney, May McCartney, Anne Brady, Mary Kenneally, Agnes Moriarty, Evelyn Silva, Agnes Silva, Honora Cronin, Anna Cronin, Anna Greeley, Mary Connolly, Katherine Winters, Katherine Milne, Nellie Sullivan, Betty Winters, Katherine Connor, Helen Carroll, Mary Carroll, Mrs. Robert E. C. E. Union Holds Vesper Service

A vesper service, in which the Free and South churches participated, was held Sunday afternoon at four o'clock in the South church.

Miss Edie Ross, president of the Andover Christian Endeavor Union, introduced the speaker, Mr. Purington, and gave out the notice concerning the officers' conference on February 22. There will be a banquet in the evening, a meeting afterwards, and a special speaker who is to be announced later. Every person interested is invited.

Maxwell Thompson rendered several pleasing tenor solos during the meeting.

Mr. Purington spoke on "The Fountain of Youth" and explained how the young people of today have accomplished many things which, until the present time, have been considered impossible. He said that the older people should try to see this younger generation's view of life and to co-operate with them.

Margaret Slattery Class Plans for Play

The monthly meeting of the Margaret Slattery class of the Free church was held on Tuesday evening at the home of the Misses Helen and Annabelle Steed on Avon street. Further plans were made for the play, "Stung," which will be presented by the members of the class in the parish house on March 4. Plans were also discussed for "Mothers Night" to be held in May.

The meeting was held in Valentine fashion. The house was attractively decorated in a color scheme in accordance with the season. Games were played and delicious refreshments served by the following committee: Misses Helen and Annabelle Steed, Sadie MacLeish, Margaret Rennie and Susie Bisset.

YOUR BOY'S BUSINESS

Manufacturing as a Life Work

By ROGER W. BABSON

Babson Park, Florida, February 18, 1927. Too many young men take the first good job offered without respect to their qualifications. Mistakes in the selection of one's occupation not only handicap one in earning a living, but often prevent one from leading a happy life. In order to be truly happy a man or woman must enjoy his daily work. Joy in one's work makes not only happiness but is absolutely essential to success. Happiness, efficiency and success the statistician finds to be synonymous terms. It is my aim therefore, to point out in this talk some of the qualifications of a successful manufacturer.

Requirements of a Successful Manufacturer

To succeed in manufacturing a man must have a number of important requirements. First of all he must have a natural business instinct, knowing both how to buy economically and how to merchandise his products. Many manufacturers have failed because they were poor buyers. Many more have failed because they were poor merchants and did not know how to market their wares. A man may make a success as a merchant without being a good manufacturer, but a man cannot make a success as a manufacturer without being a good merchant. To succeed in manufacturing a man must be thrifty with intuitive business acumen. A manufacturer, however, should in addition be a natural mechanic and even more or less of a mechanical genius. Henry Ford's success is due to the fact that he is a combination of a good merchant and an inventive genius.

Successful manufacturers must possess another quality which is rather rare, namely—the ability to get on with labor, inspiring labor with a confidence and a desire to produce. Men who have ability to hold the confidence of their employees not only avoid the difficulties but secure much better results through their efforts. An outstanding example of such a business leader is G. F. Johnson, President of the Endicott Johnson Shoe Company. To Mr. Johnson the happiness and well being of his employees is as much a part of his business as the actual manufacturing of shoes. He is not afraid to touch shoulders with his men and as a result has their absolute confidence. Men like Johnson, Charles M. Schwab, "Golden Rule" Nash, and the late William M. Wood go a long way toward restoring the soul to large corporations.

To the extent that wage workers believe in their employers, waste is eliminated and operating costs reduced. Other things being equal, a manufacturer unable to get along with his employees cannot compete with manufacturers who have such ability. This condition will be even more important as years go on and wage workers become better organized. Some of the industrialists whose stocks are prominently traded in today will ultimately go to the wall due to the inability of the corporation to get on with labor.

What to Manufacture

If your son has the requirements and is anxious to be a manufacturer it makes little difference what line he enters so long as the product is something that makes people healthier, happier or more prosperous. I say this because manufacturing lines most profitable today are attracting the greatest numbers, and, owing to increased competition, these lines will be the least profitable a few years hence. On the other hand, the overcrowded manufacturing lines of today are constantly being thinned. Thus conditions should constantly improve until only a few people remain in the industry and these few become prosperous. The wheels of fortune keep turning. Industries which are on top today may be on the bottom tomorrow and those that are at the bottom today may be on the top tomorrow. Therefore, it is much more important to study the boy and ascertain his natural abilities than it is to study the different industries.

However, it is important so far as possible to get into a "repeat" business, so-called. Seek to manufacture something that is expected to wear out and which must constantly be renewed. The manufacture of oil, bread, and electric power are illustrations of "repeat" businesses. The manufacturers of collars have constantly to guard against over-production, knowing that no person will want more than one.

Work from the Bottom Up

Whatever manufacturing business your boy enters the only way to master that business is to take his dinner pail, punch the time clock, and work on the machines. This training has a double value for it not only gives an intimate working knowledge of the machines and the production of goods, but it also gives that closer touch with and understanding of the employee who is producing the good as to the size of the concern, generally better opportunities for learning a manufacturing business are with a small concern than with the large corporation.

poration. However, after working for a while with the small concern it might be well to seek employment with the large corporation because the large corporation often has special machines, equipment, and economies which it is difficult for the small concern to possess. But above all, as mentioned in the preceding talk, connect your boy with a man who has vision and a soul, for such a man must succeed.

Manufacturing and Finances

Every manufacturer requires capital. If he has not capital of his own, he should try to raise it elsewhere either through partnership or selling stock. Borrowing money for plant investment is very dangerous unless a staple product the demand for which is increasing; second, owing to patents, size, trade names or other reasons the company should have somewhat of a monopoly; third, the company should be operated by men of the highest character and soundly financed. All manufacturing companies are very dependent on management. The public utility has an absolute monopoly and a railroad has a practical monopoly. Although the prosperity of public utilities and railroads is ultimately related to management, yet these natural monopolies continue to get on and usually make a profit even under poor management. The average manufacturing company, however, under poor management would soon go into bankruptcy.

Manufacturing Companies as Investments

In selecting manufacturing companies for investment the following points should be fulfilled. First, the company should supply a staple product the demand for which is increasing; second, owing to patents, size, trade names or other reasons the company should have somewhat of a monopoly; third, the company should be operated by men of the highest character and soundly financed. All manufacturing companies are very dependent on management. The public utility has an absolute monopoly and a railroad has a practical monopoly. Although the prosperity of public utilities and railroads is ultimately related to management, yet these natural monopolies continue to get on and usually make a profit even under poor management. The average manufacturing company, however, under poor management would soon go into bankruptcy.

There are many good industrial companies having conservative but progressive management and a strong financial structure. However, I would just like to mention these three companies which are manufacturing useful products, namely, electrical machinery, steel, and automobiles. The first, General Electric Company, enjoys a certain monopoly from its patents; the second, the U. S. Steel Corporation enjoys a certain monopoly from its size; and the third, the General Motors Company enjoys a certain monopoly from the names, Cadillac, Buick, Chevrolet, etc. All three companies are supplying staple products the demand for which is constantly increasing.

Noted Astrologer Once Lived in Andover

A New York paper has recently called attention to Evangeline Adams, pronouncing her the most noted Astrologer in the United States, if not of the world, and constantly being consulted by politicians, lawyers, and business men. The writer once called on her at her office in New York and found her just as interesting as when a pupil at Pundard. Mrs. Adams, a widow, came to Andover to educate her children, two boys and the daughter, and might be seen morning driving with her precious load from Salem street to Pundard, once one of the finest streets in town, with its attractive houses and well kept lawns. If Miss Adams had only come back and read the stars for us last year, one of Andover's calamities might have been averted. Her book has recently been added to the Andover library. Speaking of books, the Century Company has recently published "The First Year at Miss Austin's School" by Ethel Comstock Bridgman, and a second book has been accepted by the same company.

David Comstock Bridgman, her son, is a student at Phillips.

Robert M. McCurdy's "Garden Flowers" illustrated by Mabel Day and Page publishers, appeals to all lovers of flowers.

Celebrates Sixth Birthday

Little Miss Louise Frotten, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Frotten of North Main street, was given a party in honor of her sixth birthday by her parents on Saturday afternoon. The house was prettily decorated with streamers in pink, white and blue and also with Valentine favors. A large birthday cake with six candles adorned the table. Ice cream, cake, candy, cookies and peanuts were served. A number of games were played in which the following received prizes: Eleanor Doherty, Agnes Buss and Rita Burke.

Louise was the recipient of many beautiful gifts from her little friends and a gold ring from her parents. Those present: Louise Frotten, Lena Frotten, Margaret Winters, Helen Beer, Kathleen Hastings, Anna Burke, Anna Gill, Rosalind Doyle, Alice Schofield, Agnes Carter, Margaret Downs, Jennie Carney, Helen O'Connor, Esther Carney, Eleanor Doherty, Agnes Carney, Eliza Doherty, Margaret Gordon, Agnes Buss, Beth Ross, Ellen Stewart, Helen Harkins.

The Way of the Sperm Whale

The romance of whaling, the hard work, the adventure, and the fun were vividly pictured by Robert Cushman Murphy, Assistant Curator of the New York Museum of Natural History, when he spoke before a large audience in George Washington auditorium last Friday evening. Mr. Murphy has spent fifteen years in out-of-the-way places in the world, mostly at sea, and he had the privilege of taking a trip to the Islands of South Georgia in the South Atlantic in the last of the New Bedford square-riggers, the whaling being as he expressed it "only a sideshow in the field of exploration."

The whalers of New Bedford, which once had such a tremendous influence on American shipping, since they were the training school for ships of the line and carried the Stars and Stripes into the far places of the earth, are now a thing of the past. This industry, which thrived in spite of manifold perils, reached its peak just before the Civil war. At one time 325 vessels went out from New Bedford manned by 10,000 seamen and New Bedford was only one of forty such ports.

The advent of petroleum dealt whaling its death blow. Many of the vessels lay idle at the wharves, their timbers rotting, until finally they were dismantled and their waterlogged timbers sold for firewood, which, as Mr. Murphy said, must have given off in its flames "something of the color of tropical sunsets, something of the phosphorescence of tropical seas, something of the hue of the northern lights."

At one time the captains were all Americans, and the best blood of the country was attracted by the prospect of travel and seeing the world. Now, the only whaler is captained by a Portuguese with a crew of many nationalities.

Whaling was one of the first examples of industrial cooperation, each man getting his share of the proceeds from the cargo, whether much or little. Sometimes a long voyage was made with little profit. At other times when the vessel returned with a full cargo, the proceeds might be $340,000, of which $40,000 would go to the captain, and the least portion would be $2,000.

On the 16,000-mile voyage of the Daisy May in 1912, of which Mr. Murphy told the story, twenty-seven sperm whales were taken in the old-fashioned way with hand harpoon and lance. The craft was captained by a skipper who hailed from Martha's Vineyard and had spent sixty-eight years of his life at sea. The remainder of the crew were every one of them islanders drawn from many parts of the world, most of them surfmen and boatmen rather than sailors, since the whale hunting is done from small boats.

Mr. Murphy graphically described the whale hunt starting with the sighting of the whale by the lookout, the launching of the boats, the actual landing on the whale's back, the casting of the harpoon and the death blow with the lance, the arduous task of towing the great creature to the ship's side where the spermaceti is bailed out from the head and the blubber cut, tried out and stowed away in the hogheads which had originally been packed with provisions and supplies when the vessel left the home port.

Mr. Murphy's imitation of the peculiar cry given by the lookout when the whale is sighted and the rendering of one of the songs with which the sailors encourage the monotonous work of hoisting the blubber aboard by means of the windlass added a vivid touch to the scenes as they passed on the screen.

There were many beautiful pictures of sailing vessels, of old ship's logs with illustrated margins, of the whale hunt, and reproductions of the paintings by Clifford Ashley which hang in the library of New Bedford. There were also some interesting pictures of scrimshaw work, the only handicraft native to America consisting chiefly of beautifully carved ivory jaspers made from the tooth of a whale and used to put a "crimp around the gunwale of a pier."

Mr. Murphy concluded with a graphic account of one day's adventure in the whale hunt when only after a nine-hour battle were the hunters able to overcome their prey.

Legion Auxiliary Holds Valentine Party

A most successful Valentine whist party was held in the Legion hall on Monday evening under the auspices of the Good-of-the-Order committee of the Women's auxiliary to Andover Post No. 8, American Legion. The hall was attractively decorated in a color scheme of red and white, appropriate to the season. Attractive little flower cups filled with conversation hearts were placed at the various tables as well as decorated score cards. An electric dill lamp dressed in red satin and gold lace donated by Mrs. Robert E. Franz, was awarded as a door prize and won by Mrs. Alfred Coates. The numbers were Mrs. Ralph T. Berry, Miss Margaret Rodger and Ralph T. Berry. The prizes were awarded to the following: Handbag, Henry Levine; tea pot, Edward Downs; set of glasses, Mrs. Joseph Keith; dish, Mrs. Sadie Sullivan; candle sticks, Mrs. Fred Collins; stationery, Mrs. Arthur Smith; Markers; set of glasses, Edward Grace; bulb dish, B. F. Cameron; powder, William Craig; peck of apples, Joseph A. McCarthy; stockings, Janes E. Fairweather; powder, Mrs. Albert Cole; stationery, Mrs. Arthur Smith; jelly, Robert Barrett; jelly, Mrs. William McDermitt; consolation, Agnes Stewart; consolation, Arthur Mitchell.

Board of Public Works Reports Progress on Playstead

An article will appear in the warrant for the coming town meeting asking for an appropriation of $15,000 to continue the work of developing the playstead. A similar sum was appropriated last year, and after making a careful survey, the work was carried forward under the direction of the local superintendent, the work being done by the employees of the Board of Public Works. By careful management, even more was accomplished with the appropriation than was at first anticipated.

With the addition of the acre of land recently acquired to straighten the boundary lines at the easterly end of the area of the Playstead is approximately eight acres. The entire drainage system has been installed and about three-quarters of the surface has been graded. A quarter-mile cinder track has been laid out and partly constructed. The two large bleachers, each with a seating capacity of about 500 persons, have been moved from their former locations and grouped beside the track.

A report of the progress made, with suggestions for further development including a baseball field, and tennis courts and safer approach than that afforded by Whittier court, is contained in the following letter from Morse & Apkinson, engineers, 11 Beacon street, Boston, dated December 3, and addressed to the Andover Board of Public Works.

Board of Public Works,
Andover, Mass.
Gentlemen:

In accordance with your request we submit herewith our report of the work which has been done under our direction on the Andover playstead together with an estimate of work remaining to be done in order to put the entire area in a condition whereby it may be enjoyed by lovers of outdoor sports.

The area of the playstead tract at present is approximately seven acres and the straightening of the boundary lines at the easterly corner will add nearly another acre to this area.

Prior to the work of this season less than half of the field was available for sports, the balance being undrained land, overgrown with water grasses and bushes of various kinds.

After examining the premises your engineers made a careful survey from which a complete topographical map was prepared. Studies were made of the soil in order to determine its composition and the uses for which it was adapted.

Numerous test holes were sunk to ascertain the depths and formation of the substratum and also to secure data for determining the location and extent of the necessary underground drains.

With this information a drainage system was designed to provide for surface as well as ground water and a grading plan worked up which would permit the use of the desired contour at a minimum expense.

Specifications and form of contract were also prepared as it was expected at first that the work would be done by contract. It was later decided however by your board to handle the construction with your own forces and the work therefore was conducted in the manner.

While the grading of the entire field at present is incomplete, more work has actually been done than was originally contemplated. During the progress of the work it was pointed out by your engineers that if the general scheme of improvement was followed at this time it would be necessary later to remove large areas of loam and grass in order to construct the running track, baseball field, tennis courts, etc. It was therefore decided by your board to make these several units integral with the grading operation and thereby save a considerable item of expense.

A quarter-mile cinder track has been laid out on the westerly side of the field and has already been partly constructed. The two large bleachers, each with a seating capacity of about 500 persons have been removed from their former locations and grouped beside the track.

The entire drainage system has been installed and about three quarters of the surface area of the field has been graded. The records show that there has been expended for the work the total of $14,967.40 of which $907.01 was for labor, teams and trucks, $454.31 for materials such as cinders, gravel, and pipe, and $1350 for surveys, designs and engineering services.

To complete the work which has already been undertaken additional funds will be needed, and in order that the townspeople may obtain variety in their recreation and also realize on their initial playground investment, your attention is respectfully called to the desirability of constructing, in addition to the running track and football field, a baseball field with bleachers of adequate seating capacity together with tennis courts or other playground units of such extent as your board believes advisable.

With the development of the field, it is felt that consideration should be given at this time to a suitable approach. Entrance now is possible only through Whittier Court, a narrow way bordering on private dooryards and of a width sufficient to permit the passage of only one vehicle at a time. An extensive ledge outcrop in the vicinity precludes its widening. It is therefore suggested that a new approach be constructed across the schoolhouse grounds entering from Whittier street at a point about 100 feet westerly from Whittier Court. A gravel surfaced driveway 20 feet in width would be sufficient and the grounds between the Jackson and Pundard school buildings would afford ample parking facilities for automobiles.

An estimate of the cost of completing the playstead on the above basis is as follows:

Additional grading of field	$2800
Lining, fertilizing and seeding	6450
Completion of running track	750
Construction of baseball field	200
Bleachers at baseball field, seating capacity 500 persons	1000
Two tennis courts with woven wire enclosure	2500
Concrete piers for present bleachers	300
Construction of new approach to playstead	475
	$14475
Engineering 10 percent	1447
	$15922

Yours respectfully,
MORSE & APIKSON

Christian Endeavorers Plan First Conference

The first annual society conference of the Andover Christian Endeavor Union will be held Tuesday in the Free church beginning at three o'clock and continuing into the early part of the evening. The program consists of conferences covering all branches of Christian Endeavor Work and will be led by Rev. C. N. Carvell, of County and Union officers. The purpose of these conferences is to discuss the ways and means of doing more efficient work and for the exchange of ideas.

At the close of the department conference a social hour will be enjoyed and an opportunity given for those present to meet each other.

At 5.30 a banquet will be served to which the general public is invited. James R. Carter will be the toastmaster. Toasts will be given by the following: "You," Bertha Cuthill; "Possibilities," Herbert Otis; "Sociability," Selma Billington; "Christian," Rev. C. N. Carvell; and "Endeavor," Miss Effie O. Ross.

At the evening session which will follow the banquet, the Rev. Arthur T. Towler D. D. of Lawrence will give the address.

The conference leaders are: General conference—William W. Barnet, and James R. Carter, officers of Essex County Union.

Presidents and vice presidents:— President Effie O. Ross of Andover Union, assisted by N. W. Truell, president of Lowell Union. Secretary and treasurer: Dorothy Trott and Williams Emmons of Andover Union.

Publicity and Citizenship:— Evelyn Mayer and Howard Harrington.

Missionary and Quiet Hour:— Edith Kierstead and Edna Albers.

Society Problems:— Amelia M. Drew. The committee in charge: Howard Harrington, chairman; Evelyn Mayer, May Noyes, Effie O. Ross, Jennie R. Wetterberg, James R. Carter and William W. Barnet.

Elected Member of Board of Directors

The following news story copied from a recent issue of the Buffalo Courier and Express will be of interest to the friends of Roy W. Lindsay, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Lindsay of Summer street:

At a meeting of the board of directors of Pratt & Lambert, Inc., varnish, enamel and lacquer makers, just held in Buffalo, R. W. Lindsay, general sales manager, was elected a member of the board.

Mr. Lindsay, who resides at 179 Parkside avenue, this city, has been connected with the company more than eighteen years. In December, 1908, shortly after his graduation from Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Mr. Lindsay came to Buffalo to the headquarters of Pratt & Lambert, Inc., as chief chemist. His work in the laboratories brought him into close contact with technical sales problems and important customers of the company which after a few years led to his promotion as manager of industrial sales. He became general sales manager in February, 1922. Last November he was elected assistant treasurer.

King's Daughters Plan Colonial Silver Tea

During the month of February, festivities usually take the form of things historical and often so many are planned that some of them are forced to play their part in the following month of March. Such is the case of the Colonial Silver Tea which The King's Daughters are planning to hold on March 16th at the home of Dr. Look on Main street.

When the word goes forth that Courtroom Circle is sponsor for an entertainment, one anticipates an hour or two of both pleasure and profit. The Silver Tea will be no exception as it is planned around a most interesting and unusual display of miniature Colonial furniture. This unique collection was made by Mrs. W. B. Clark of Boston for her grandchildren, with the purpose of having them become familiar with Colonial types of furniture as well as the style of dressing of that period of the long ago. Some of the pieces date back to 1829 and many of them were made by hand by Loring Cushing, the celebrated toy-maker of Hingham. All are hand-made and are wonderful examples of the painstaking cabinet work of those early days. Mrs. Clark has been untiring in her efforts to have this collection authentic and complete in every detail, showing the furnishings in a home from the bedroom to the kitchen.

Andover people are given the opportunity of viewing this noteworthy exhibit through the kindness of Mrs. Clark who has shown it no less than fifteen times for charity and by so doing has enabled the society under whose auspices the exhibit is made to turn into its treasury a goodly sum. The work of The King's Daughters is well known to the citizens of Andover, many of whom, have in the past, been recipients of its kindly ministrations and if many stop on March 16th at Dr. Look's for an inspection of the Colonial furniture and a social cup of tea, more cheer may be carried by The King's Daughters to Andover homes.

South Church Men's Club Holds Ladies' Night

"No movement is greater in its spread nor faster in its movement than conservatism," said Dallas Lore Sharp, speaking on "The Conservation of Wild Life" at Ladies' night of the South Church Men's club held Tuesday evening in the vestry. "We need space in which to get out of city life and be wild. The great rocky islands off the coast of Oregon which are the nesting place of thousands and thousands of birds which Professor Sharp visited giving him the sensation of having visited the antediluvian and primordial world."

At Mr. Clark's request, the speaker told the story of a great American condor, one of the few surviving specimens of its kind, raised under the watchful care of Mr. and Mrs. Findlay in the San Bernardino mountains but which finally continued its existence in the zoo in New York. It was a dramatic ending to the story of a very unusual experience.

At the short business meeting held prior to the lecture two new members, Carl Elander and L. A. Field, and four new names were proposed for membership. Refreshments of parties, peas, potato chips, olives, pickles, coffee and chocolate were served by the men to their guests under direction of Kenneth E. Fisk. About one hundred eighty persons were present.

THE TOWN WARRANT

measure and no adequate argument has been brought forward opposing it. If members of the police department were placed under civil service, the men would then be able to join the State Relief Association all of whom are Civil Service men. If Officer Black had been a member of this association, his heirs would have received $500.

Under Article 28, the town is asked to authorize the School committee to report at the next Town meeting on the adequacy of the present school facilities, to furnish an estimate of the annual growth of the school population and to report its recommendations with reference to additional facilities and equipment.

John F. O'Connell sponsors two articles: one to alter the by-laws that all town departments shall call for bids for supplies, equipment, construction work or other purposes costing $500 or more and insofar as possible on expenditures of lesser amounts; the second, to establish a scale of charges for the use of the ambulance under certain conditions.

Under Article 26, a committee of five is asked for to make a survey of salaries and rates of pay for town employees, to see whether or not there should be any increase in said salaries and rates of pay.

The meeting for the discussion of these matters will be held on Monday, March 14, at 1.30 o'clock.

Court Fines Disturbers

Philip Gallagher and Dennis Minahan, farm hands at the Shattuck farm in West Andover, appeared before Judge Colver J. Stone in Andover police court Monday afternoon charged with drunkenness and disturbance at the farm on Saturday night when they were arrested and locked up by officers William Low, John Deymond and William Frye. Both pleaded guilty to the charges and were fined $5 each, which they paid.

The Andover League of Women Voters to Consider the Town Warrant

The next regular meeting of the Andover League of Women Voters, to be held Thursday, February 24, at 3.30 p. m., in Puncard Hall, will be given over to a discussion of the Town Warrant.

Charles Bowman, representing the Section, will speak on "The Routine Business of the Town." Arthur Boutwell will speak for the Board of Public Works and Mrs. E. V. French for the School Committee.

A member of the Finance Committee will talk on the recommendations of that Committee and there will be a discussion of the proposed war memorial.

Opportunity will be given for questions and such discussion of the points at issue, as will enable the citizens of Andover to attend the Town Meeting, well informed as to the business to be considered.

The public is cordially invited to be present at and to participate in this meeting. Members of all women's organizations are especially invited to attend.

Fire Damages House

The fire department was called out late Monday afternoon to Box 68 at the corner of High street and Burnham road. The fire was located in the attic of a house on High street, occupied by Mr. and Mrs. John Maguire and family. Flames were bursting through the roof when the apparatus arrived but the firemen succeeded in confining it to the attic.

The fire is believed to have started from spontaneous combustion, starting in a box of oils and rags which were covered over in a corner of the attic. In the early evening a spark had started up again between the partitions and the apparatus again responded. The damage is estimated at $500.

The fire department also extinguished a chimney fire at the home of Fred Symonds on Salem street in the early morning.

Citizens

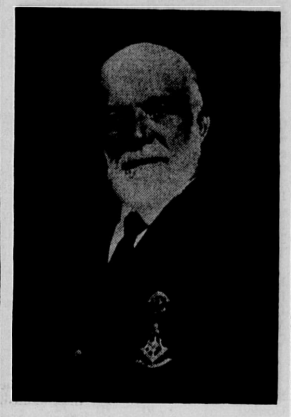

THOMAS DAVID

Andover lost one of its best known and most highly esteemed citizens, Monday evening, when Thomas David passed away at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Joseph Blunt, 70 Salem street. Death came in his eighty-fifth year after a lingering illness.

The late Mr. David who had played a prominent part in the affairs of the town for more than forty years, was the oldest Mason in Andover, and the first man to be received into that craft in the new Masonic temple after its dedication in June, 1890, both honors which he warmly cherished.

Born in Arbuthnot, Scotland in 1842, he came to America during the 70's. He first settled at Roselle, Illinois, where he started a flax mill, but came to Andover a year later. He returned to Scotland in 1874, remaining abroad until 1881 when he again took up residence in Andover which he maintained until the time of his death.

He was rated highly in the flax manufacturing trade and served for many years as an overseer for the Smith & Dove Manufacturing company. He was overseer in the plant built by that corporation in 1895, and retired from active work in April of 1912. He served Andover in a number of capacities.

and for sixteen years rendered valuable service as a member of the school committee.

One of the best known Masons in the state, the late Mr. David was a member in his ritual and not only served St. Matthew's lodge, master and past master, but rarely missed a meeting during his long term of membership in the fraternity. He officiated within three years at the past master's night and members of the craft journeyed from many cities and towns to hear him.

Andover lodge, 230, I. O. O. F., found in him a loyal and faithful member, while the Andover Burns club and the Abbott Village Coal society, before they went out of existence, honored him with offices. Mr. David was a member of the Free church and served as a deacon for many years. He was formerly a member of the West Parish church and attended the 100th anniversary celebration of that parish last June.

An outstanding type of citizen, Andover found strong and sincere support from his hands in every measure that tended to the betterment of the community. He had rare ability as an orator, and willingly lent it at various entertainments throughout the town. Especially well liked, and enjoying a host of friends and acquaintances, his passing is marked with keen regret.

Besides his daughter, with whom he made his home, he is survived by two grandchildren, and a number of relatives in Scotland.

Funeral services attended by a large number of relatives and friends were held from the late home yesterday afternoon, with Dr. Frederick A. Wilson and Rev. Alfred C. Church officiating. Two favorite hymns, "Saved by Grace" and "Abide with Me," were sung by Arthur W. Bassett and "Crossing the Bar" was read by Mr. Church.

Burial was in West Parish cemetery where committal services were held.

The bearers were John C. Angus, Henry A. Bodwell, Monte Z. Whitcomb, Alexander Rogers, David May, G. M. R. Holmes.

A Tribute

To the Editor of the Townsman,

Dear Sir:

Word has just come to me of the death of Mr. Thomas David, and I would like to add my testimony to the many tributes being sent in and saying about the fine quality of his life.

He was preeminently a man of God and for many years a faithful servant of the church in the capacity of Deacon, yet there was nothing of false piety about him. Indeed the saving grace of humor was so marked a characteristic of his nature that he always made the religious life seem attractive and wholesome.

I shall not soon forget his humorous reading of "The President" nor his telling of a good story. He had great natural ability as a reader and a true dramatic instinct. How well his Masonic brethren can testify to that.

Having a strong and independent mind he was a man of deep convictions yet showed a tolerance for other opinions that was remarkable for one of his years. I recall that on one occasion the members of the Free Church took a secret ballot on a question of National policy which I had enthusiastically endorsed. The results showed that only one negative ballot had been cast, whereupon Deacon David came to me and laughingly said that he had cast the one opposing vote. We were all the better friends for having honestly disagreed.

His jovial laugh, his interesting and pungent speech, his strict integrity, his sturdy faith, his abounding affection; all these will be sorely missed, but let us rejoice that "having fought the good fight, having finished his course, having kept the faith; henceforth there is laid up for him a crown of righteousness."

Sincerely yours,

ARTHUR S. WHEELLOCK

To Present "Shoot the Works" Next Week Saturday

"Shoot the Works," the musical comedy, presented by members of The Pi Eta club of Harvard, which has its opening performance tonight at the Pi Eta Theatre in Cambridge will come to Andover on Saturday evening, February 26.

The cast is distinguished by veteran as well as new talent, and reads like a combined football and baseball lineup. The hero, William Rockwell, is portrayed by R. H. Booth '27, who is aided in his strenuous role by his pitching experience on last year's championship university baseball team. He is enamored of one Mary Ogden, co-maid of the great opera spaces, whose charms are subtly interpreted by Howard Whitmore '29, star not only of the stage but also of last year's Freshman team pitching staff.

Complications are plentiful in the romance when Dolores Casanova, vamp of Spain, comes on the stage, leading Rockwell's valet, Jimmy Walker, a merry-go-go. L. W. Grossman '16, who wrote the music for last year's show and portrayed "Nooky" in the "Fool for Scandal," furnishes a large share of the comedy as Jimmy Walker, a New York "gentleman" from thirty-third street. Spanish girls still have a thing or two to learn from C. R. Frazier '27 in the part of Dolores Casanova.

E. F. Gamache '27, center on the University football team and a member of the lacrosse team is foreman of the Ogden ranch in the part of Tom Mixer. R. W. Ayer '28, as Bud Montana, is the blustering sheriff. A. W. Blackwell '28, as the sheriff's deputy lends a helping hand although he doesn't talk about it much. C. A. Allen '28, a member of the championship class football team and J. A. Hutchinson '28, who plays on the University golf team, do a lot of work around the ranch in the parts of Zane Gray and Ollie Curwood.

The Club has been fortunate in again securing Mr. G. V. C. Lord as coach. Mr. Lord's optimism over the possibilities of "Shoot the Works" has been unsurpassed during the sixteen years of experience with Pi Eta Productions.

The book for the play was written by R. H. Booth '27 and D. S. Gibbs '27 and deals with melodramatic adventure and romance of the Wild West. Richard Donham '27 and L. W. Grossman '16, have collaborated on the music. Donham has also written many of the lyrics.

Six performances have been scheduled for "Shoot the Works." In addition to the opening night, performances will be given in Andover, Newton, Wellesley, and twice more at the Club Theatre in Cambridge.

"Shoot the Works" is in the hands of H. A. Secrist '27, general manager, H. A. Wood '25, business manager, J. K. Whiting '29, publicity manager, E. H. Bailey '27, advertising manager; and D. F. Harding '27, ticket manager.

Obsequies

JEREMIAH J. MAHONEY

A large gathering of relatives and friends, representatives of the Bench and Bar of Massachusetts and men prominent in the professional, business and social life of the state gathered in St. Mary's church, Lawrence, Saturday morning to pay their last respects to the memory of the late Justice Jeremiah J. Mahoney, who for twenty-two years was presiding justice of the Lawrence District court and for several years associate justice in Superior Court. He died at the Phillips Home, Boston, on Wednesday, February 9, after an illness of only ten days.

Led by the officers, the entire night force of the Lawrence Police department marched to the Mahoney home and there viewed the remains of the late justice. Officers John P. F. Bolton, Michael Sheehy, Joseph Casey, Martin Y. O'Sullivan, Joseph Sullivan and Daniel Lyons were detailed as a guard of honor to remain at the house from half past eight until nine o'clock.

Special cars transported the night force to the Fairview cemetery where they awaited the arrival of the funeral cortege and marched in front of it to the church. The long funeral cortege wended its way up Broadway to Bradford street and thence to St. Mary's church, where, at ten o'clock, a solemn high mass was celebrated by Rev. Daniel J. O'Malley, O. S. A., assisted by Rev. John B. Leonard, O. S. A., as deacon, and Rev. Luke M. Powers, O. S. A., as sub-deacon. Seated within the sanctuary were Rev. Michael Sullivan, O. S. A., Rev. John Whalen of Andover and Rev. John E. Keenan of Boston, of the Gate of Heaven church, South Boston.

At the offertory, solos were sung by Mrs. P. J. Donovan and Joseph Walsh. As the body was being borne from the church, Professor Thomas F. Leonard, organist, played the "Dead March from Saul." Interment was in the family lot in the Immaculate Conception cemetery, where committal prayers were read by Rev. Daniel J. O'Malley, O. S. A., assisted by Rev. John B. Leonard, O. S. A., Rev. Luke M. Powers, O. S. A., Rev. Michael Sullivan, O. S. A., Rev. John Whelan and Rev. Fr. Killian.

The honorary bearers were: Hon. John C. Crosby, Hon. Patrick M. Keating, Hon. Franklin T. Hammond, Hon. Harry R. Dow, Hon. James W. McDonald, Hon. Arthur P. Stone, Hon. John W. Winn, Hon. Albert F. Hayden, Hon. Wilbur E. Rowell, Hon. Albion G. Peirce, Hon. John L. Bates, Hon. Robert T. Bushnell, Hon. Ralph N. Smith, Asst. District Attorney White, Sherman Whipple, Hon. J. Robert Tetter, Hon. Walter W. Crockett, Hon. Robert S. Milroy, Peter Carr, John Flanagan, Patrick F. McNulty, Fred H. Eaton, Albert I. Couch, Byron E. Crowell, Cornelius A. McCarthy, John P. S. Mahoney, H. Bradford Lewis and Thomas Claxton.

The active bearers were: Dr. Alexander L. Siskind, Fred F. Flynn, Hon. Frederic N. Chandler, James J. Sullivan, Maurice J. Curran, Charles Aldern, Nathan Anthony and Maurice McBride.

The ushers were: Daniel W. Mahoney, Michael F. Cronin, Watkins W. Roberts, Albert L. Drummond, Harold Siskind, Augustine X. Dooley, John A. Costello and Halbert W. Dow.

The Knights of Columbus delegation included Hon. John J. Hurley, Hon. Joseph J. Flynn, Hon. Joseph F. Flynn and Thomas J. McEneaney.

The Elks delegation included: James L. Bride, John J. Donovan, Edward J. Wade and William A. Kelleher.

The Old District School

Some sing of Mary's little lamb,
And of the barefoot boy,
Who found the red schoolhouse filled
With laughter and joy,
But we sing of the DISTRICT SCHOOL
That South Church A. P. C.
Is bringing into Andover
For all the town to see!
No "School for Scandal" is the play,
Though lots of good town folks
Will find a hint of merriment
In snappy songs and jokes.
So keep in mind that March the third
There is a jolly show
Staged in the vestry of South Church
And everybody get

The Washington Ball—Brightest and Best

On next Tuesday evening, the twenty-second of February, the great Washington Ball, which is for the pleasure of the whole community, will be held in the Town Hall. Our shopkeepers' supply of safety pins, elastic, cretonne and cheese cloth is fast diminishing, so all are urged to put their plans for costumes into speedy action, for the time and supply is limited.

It is gratifying to the committee to hear that several costume sewing parties are being held so that the ladies may exchange ideas, lend assistance, and learn the difference between a pannier and a pantalo.

If there are any persons lacking in ideas, or time, or the wherewithal to hire a costume, the committee trusts that they will not grow faint-hearted like Cinderella, but join the throng attired in their best party clothes.

A little bird tells us that various individuals have mistaken ideas about the ball. Their thoughts are very much like the ducky song—

"Little Betty Martin tip-toe fine,
She couldn't find a husband to please her mind.
Some too coarse and some too fine!" etc.

The ball isn't going to be too fine and it isn't going to be too "flat," but like the little bird's bed, just right!

Consider the celebrities who are invited to attend, "Mr. Samuel Francis Smith," the author of "America" (have all learned every verse, in case polite conversation brings the subject up?) and "Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe," the "grande dame" of old Andover and the author of "Uncle Tom's Cabin."

Dr. Ansperger of New York stated the other evening that Mrs. Stowe wrote her story with the baby balanced in one hand and her pen in the other. How any human could accomplish such a feat without sticking the pen in the baby and the baby into the ink surpasses our comprehension, but as the ex-baby himself told this to Dr. Ansperger it must be authentic.

Although doctors tell us that is impossible for children at such an early age to recall particular incidents, the writer herself distinctly remembers being dragged along, when in long clothes, her head tucked under a little sister's arm, having her mouth stuffed with dry bread—the little sister saying that a liquid diet was insufficient for such a promising child. (The infant in question even recollects struggling to kick off the long lace petticoat, thus showing an early sympathy with present fashions!)

So we stand firmly by ex-baby Stowe's statement and may even jointly with him compile a best-seller, "The Original Better Baby's Book."

Mrs. Stowe will settle all controversies concerning her baby and her book on Tuesday evening.

A last word about costumes. With such a variety of modes to choose from during the early American period which includes Indians, Puritans and Pilgrims, Pirates, Colonial and Red Coated Soldiers, the committee for the ball feels justified in asking the participants to consider this list and leave their garments and ballet, Chinese and Sandwich Island costumes hanging in their closets.

There will be dressing rooms provided, although possibly the Police Station may have to be chartered for the evening, as the usual coat room is stacked with books from the library.

The ladies may be "priceless wollums" to quote one of Jeffery Farnol's gentlemen, but a room packed with the bound varieties might render the Police Court (for this evening only) preferable.

If we remember rightly the best mirror in the Town House is in the Police quarters! Save Tuesday evening for the Washington Ball.

Come looking as festive as possible—you'll soon feel as you look—and enjoy the dancing, music costumes and refreshments.

Square and Compass Minstrels

The fifth annual minstrel show of the Andover Square and Compass club will be held in the town hall Thursday and Friday evenings, February 24 and 25. The cast is rapidly rounding into shape and this show promises to be the most unique of all the shows staged by the club during the past five years. Among the features that stamp the production as different from modern minstrelsy is the fact that the cast is bone ensemble. The scene will be a southern levee with the inimitable George A. Higgins as the boss, in the role of interlocutor.

A clever combination of new and old-time songs has been made by Directors Whitten and the program will be as follows:

Opening Chorus—Entire Company
When Did You Get Those Eyes—Rosco N. Brannan
Scottish Songs—Miss Ethel Campbell
High, High, High up in the Hills—Len Sherman
Italian Rhapodies—Henry Fairweather
Here Comes Fatima—Charles T. Gillard
Sunday—Everett Collins
Me Too—George Wiswall
Music and Dancing Specialty—Harrison Brown

Albert Saunders and Fred Yancy Out in the New-moon Hay—John M. Erving
The bones will be John M. Erving, premier, Harrison Brown, premier, Horace C. Bodwell, H. S. Miller, D. W. Clark, I. R. Kimball.

The tambos will be John Carse, Walter P. E. Freiwald, J. L. DeWolfe, Len Sherman, W. H. McRae, Rosco N. Brannan, Robert Crockett, Jr., Charles T. Gillard, George H. Wiswall, Harry Sellars.

The members of the entertainment committee are Henry J. Simmers, chairman, Dana W. Clark, George Neilson, John A. S. Swenson.

The costumes will be by Ware of Boston and the scenery by George Lord, also of Boston.

Valentine Favor Dance Enjoyable

The Crystal Ballroom of Shawshen was the scene of a very pretty Valentine Favor dance Wednesday evening, under the direction of the Girls' Friendly Society of Christ church. There were about 200 young people present and all participated in the favor dance which was the feature of the evening.

The matrons were: Mrs. Charles W. Henry, Mrs. Walter H. Sherrard, Mrs. Paddock, and Miss Emily Richards.

The girls on the committee were dressed in dainty white aprons decorated with hearts. Many of the young folks came from Lawrence and Lowell, as well as Shawshen and Andover. It was decidedly the most successful dance the society has ever held and a goodly sum will be added to the treasury.

Editor of the Townsman

Dear Sir:

The enormous sum which the proposed War Memorial would cost, seems a pity when only a second class work of art, as art is understood by artists, could be expected from the sculptor in question. Mr. Daniel Chester French belongs to the last generation. Even in trivial matters, such as dress, we do not like the style of last year.

From a commercial standpoint, and for the ordinary tourist, an angel of Mr. French's is sure to give satisfaction. He has similar angels in other towns and cities, excellently supported architecturally, of a highly polished and suave technique—sentimental, tiresome, tired, yes we know well enough this one is going to look tired too—they all do; let her rest at night undisturbed by the electric lamps called for in the plan.

If those whose death is to be commemorated could speak, I believe they would say, "Abroad we saw many better monuments, why didn't they import one at a fraction of the cost from people with centuries of artistic achievement behind them or at least employ younger blood in this country which is competing with Europe and doing original work of permanent value." Those men might also add, "Are the fruits of our endeavor crushed beneath this single object, this useless statue, only useless, however, because it is not superb! We should have liked our names remembered in some material form, but that form perfect in its kind as possible—perhaps a simple tablet in the Park or in the town hall—but where any considerable amount of money is concerned we would like the boys of Andover to have what we ourselves needed and wanted more than anything else, a School Gymnasium exactly as Mr. Sanborn has suggested, and more adequate and sanitary school buildings."

Next to the schools comes the Park, fine trees, open sunny spaces, curiously unattractive—perhaps the hand stand and the bridge should be blown up and the obstructive sewer-like ditch, once, I suppose, a pretty brook. Its shortcomings would be more apparent if one corner of the Park were adorned by shrubbery round a War Memorial.

Then we criticize the Town Hall, though the appearance of the front could be improved at no great expense even if a large new building cannot be erected very soon. Then consider the impression that Elm Square must have been making on strangers until the Public Library was under repair, not a single presentable building was to be seen.

If the existence of a truly glorious memorial does ever lure tourists to Andover before the public buildings are generally improved, for the reputation of our town, may the pass out in a southerly direction past the buildings of Phillips Academy.

WEST PARISH

The cafeteria lunch planned by the Ladies' Aid society for February 25, has been postponed to Thursday, March 3.

Alfred Pidgeon has moved from the farm formerly known as the Jameson place on Argilla road to Shawsham Village.

A kettle of burning fat at the home of Herbert B. Mark, Lowell road, occasioned a call for the fire department on Wednesday. The fire was put out without doing serious damage.

The Seaman's Friend society is holding a supper and social in the West Church vestry this evening. A musical entertainment will be given after the supper.

The many friends of Mrs. Harold Cadman, formerly of the parish, will be saddened on hearing of the death of Mrs. Cadman's mother, Mrs. Jose, early in the week.

The West Church Christian Endeavor society will help reorganize the society of the Congregational church, Ballardvale, on Sunday evening, February 20, at 6.30 o'clock by invitation of the "Flying Squadron," of the Andover Union.

The R. P. C. Girls' club met with Miss Winona Boutwell, Shawsham road, on Monday evening and enjoyed a jolly Valentine party. The next meeting will be with Miss Helen Lewis, Lowell road, on Monday evening, February 28.

The Ladies' Aid Society's program for 1927 includes the following events of interest: Card party in charge of Mrs. Winslow and Mrs. Walter Pike, chicken supper with entertainment by the R. P. C. Girls' Club, Mrs. George Ward and Mrs. Hervey Northey in charge of the supper; vaudeville show by Lafollet Club, R. P. C. Girls' Club, Ladies' Aid Society, Boys' Group and Men's Group, each group to entertain twenty minutes; and Bailey District Group with Mrs. E. W. Boutwell, chairman.

Grange Notes

Andover Grange will observe Patriotic Night with Arthur R. Lewis in charge on Tuesday evening.

Essex Pomona will meet at Memorial Hall, Groveland, Thursday, March 3.

Farmers' Day will be observed at Essex Aggie, Wednesday, March 9. An unusually good entry of exhibits useful in farming and for farm homes has already been received. A fine exhibit of the work done both by the boys and girls is being prepared. These features together with the lectures and other entertainment will make a day of great interest to Essex County farmers and their families.

Chesham Pomona was given an unique entertainment on Wednesday when the Civics class put on the play, "Town Meeting at Hathom." It was well done and added much to the interest of the meeting.

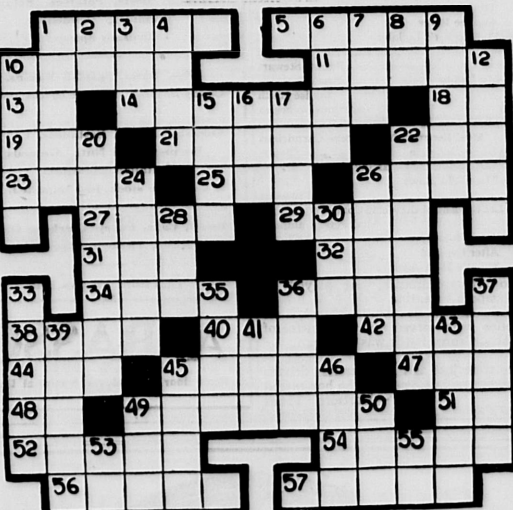

Punchard and Johnson Girls to Play

The Punchard basketball girls will play the Johnson girls this afternoon at the North Andover gymnasium. The game ought to prove interesting, since both teams are in good shape. The Punchard High girls are all veterans; Captain Frances Metcalf is in her last year's position as a fine guard; Manager "Ted" Anderson has been a very capable side center for two years; Ella Petrie is still jumping higher than any center she has opposed; Etta Larkin, who received her training in grammar school, is as fast as a quail as Punchard has ever had. She and Captain Metcalf are a splendid guard team. Grace Parker who made her debut as a forward in her freshman year, is still good for the rest of this season and also next year. Mae Elander, the other forward, has shown great improvement this season and has aged the ball a great number of times in the games which have been played so far.

Deaths

February 12, 1927, at 18 Carlsbrook street, Ithaca, N.Y., aged 75 years.
February 12, 1927, at 409 West street, Karolina Blomquist, widow of Gustaf Blomquist, aged 59 years and 7 months.

Court St. Monica Holds Valentine Party

A Valentine party followed the monthly social of Court St. Monica, Catholic Daughters of America held in the Knights of Columbus hall on Monday evening. Several interesting games were played and prizes were awarded to the following: Mrs. Annie Quailley, Mrs. Joseph Fallon, Mrs. McKown, Miss Louise Daley and Mrs. Alfred Froten. Solos were rendered by George Leacock accompanied by Mrs. Henry Schultz. Refreshments were served.

On Tuesday afternoon, February 22, a whist party will be held in the K. of C. hall under the auspices of Court St. Monica. The committee will sponsor a bakery sale to be held on Friday afternoon, February 25.

The members of the court have been invited to attend the meeting of the Andover League of Women Voters to be held in the Punched School hall on next Thursday afternoon. The town warrant will be discussed at this meeting.

Entertain at Valentine Luncheon

Mrs. Harrison Brown and Mrs. Walter Freiwald were hostesses Monday at a Valentine luncheon held at the home of Mrs. Brown on Elm street. The happy occasion was also the birthday of the hostesses and each received a potted fern from the S. D. club who were invited guests.

The house was prettily decorated with hearts and fancy valentines and was given each guest as souvenirs. Bridge was played during the afternoon. Mrs. B. F. Hatch won the first prize offered and Mrs. James Walker was awarded the consolation. Those present were: Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Freiwald, Miss Grace Higgins, Mrs. Walter Buxton, Mrs. Frank Baldwin, Mrs. George Yorke, Mrs. James Walker and Mrs. B. F. Hatch.

Harrison Potter Gives Beautiful Recital At Abbot

Harrison Potter, pianist, gave the fourth Faculty recital at Abbot Academy, on Saturday afternoon before an enthusiastic audience. It was an afternoon of many interests: Mr. Potter made his debut at Abbot as a member of the Faculty; a performance of the remarkable Griffes sonata; Mr. Potter's graceful pianistic style, and so on. It was soon evident that Mr. Potter had found a niche at Abbot, one which had apparently been waiting for him. The outstanding performance, before which all else paled, was his magnificent interpretation of the Sonata of Griffes. It is not beautiful music, for it is arid, strident and frequently violently harsh; but it is true in its interpretation of life, and in its reflection of things real. It is astonishing to realize how Griffes anticipated the present-day school of realism in music. Gone, evidently, is the last vestige of romanticism; in its place there is emphasis on things elemental. No doubt the whole movement is but a phase. It followed the university school of impressionism, and will be followed by something else. Nevertheless, the movement will have its significance in the span of time, and we, of Abbot, are profoundly grateful to Mr. Potter for his exposition, and for giving us the opportunity of hearing the music. One may not like the sounds he hears—much depends upon education, much on taste—but one must hear, and hear often if he is to judge intelligently.

Miss Wamaker is a member of the class of 1922, Punched High school, and since her graduation has been connected with the American Woolen company. Mr. Gardner is connected with the same company at their Boston office.

Gift for Pastor's Wife

Saturday evening an enjoyable affair was held in the Methodist church vestry when members of the Signa Rapa girls gathered with a number of friends to hold a Valentine and surprise party for Mrs. Raymond Wonder, who has been showing a keen interest in the welfare of the young people of the church.

During the evening Miss Grace Russell, in behalf of the society, presented Mrs. Wonder with a handsome dish as a token of respect and also as a birthday gift. Another feature of the occasion was the beautiful birthday cake made by Miss Russell.

The room was prettily decorated by the girls in Valentine colors, which made a appropriate setting for the festivities. Games were played and refreshments served. A bowling contest was also held.

Those present were Grace Russell, Florence Wells, Margaret Benson, Ruth Wells, Ida Mitchell, Eva Kibbee, John Russell, Albert Coates, Edwin Russell and Rev. and Mrs. Raymond Wonder.

WON PRIZE FOR DEFINITION OF PERFECT CHILD
An article on the definition of a "Perfect Child" by Steven T. Byington, published in the Forum, January, 1927, was placed first in a group of eight published.

The article is as follows: "Perfection is completeness; a child is incomplete. Our ideal child must be, he who gives best promise of making an ideal man. He must be sound and vigorous in body; inquisitive about everything; a nuisance, as was the boy Abraham Lincoln, by his disposition to insist on precise accuracy in all statements; quick to see how things seem to other people; ready in decision regarding action; brave; keen; persistent and a stickler for justice to everybody. He must be learning self-restraint, but not achieve it till maturity."

ANDOVER RESIDENTS PRAISE THE FAMOUS REMEDY OF CLAUDE A. BELL

Dr. Hermance's Asthma and Hay Fever Medicine Has Given Great Relief—Old Reliable
Compound Manufactured Since 1847

"I have as very close friends a number of Andover residents that have obtained relief from Dr. M. Hermance's Remedy both for Hay Fever and Asthma and it can be purchased at any of the local druggists."

"Since 1847 Dr. Hermance's formula for the relieving of suffering from hay fever and asthma has been helping humanity and it will continue to do so for the next eighty years. I think that is proof of its value as each year the numbers of its users grow until now in all parts of the civilized world there are those who praise its benefits." Thus speaks Claude A. Bell of Tyngsboro, manufacturer of Dr. Hermance's famous asthma and hay fever remedy.

Mr. Bell's files are bulging with testimonials from persons in all walks of life who sing its praises and in many cases physicians use it almost entirely in their practice.

Dr. Hermance was a physician with a large practice in Brooklyn, New York, and saw the need of a remedy for these two maladies that have caused humanity much suffering as early as 1847. In his drugstore in Brooklyn he perfected the formula, and at the time of his death in 1867, A. W. Bell, also a proprietor of a druggist's shop in Brooklyn, continued its manufacture. It was then that the product, through nothing but mouth-to-mouth advertising, gained hundreds of boosters throughout the United States and Canada. Many actual cures were traced through the use of this medicine. When A. W. Bell died, his widow continued the manufacture of the product and soon the business passed into the competent hands of Claude A. Bell, its present head.

Claude Bell has placed the manufacture of the remedy on such a plane now that it is possible for you to purchase it at your neighborhood drug store anywhere in the civilized world.

Fine Plant

An inspection of the plant and laboratories shows clearly why this remedy enjoys such a sale. Nothing has been left undone to make the remedy one of the finest of its kind. The very latest of equipment, every possible known device for sanitation and cleanliness, coupled with labor saving and efficient machinery.

In a sense the remedy is one of the old-fashioned "kitchen remedies" as it is composed almost entirely of roots and herbs, carefully blended, compounded and thoroughly dextrinized and tested. It is absolutely free from opium, morphine, cocaine, stramonium or other habit-forming drug and, unlike other remedies it helps the heart, according to its manufacturer.

One of Mr. Bell's most enthusiastic workers around the laboratory is his wife, Mrs. Bell, who says: "One reason I am so interested in the work is because of the results the remedy obtains. Honestly, it would do your heart good to read some of the letters which we receive from those who have been helped by it, thanking us. Sufferers that for years had no relief, but now are entirely cured from asthma and hay fever. I got particular delight in healing the children."

Not only does Dr. M. Hermance's medicine help in asthma and hay fever, but it also gives great relief in the case of head colds, chest colds, bronchial troubles and catarrhal troubles.

What Is Hay Fever?

"Hay fever is a reflex disease of the nervous system of the same class as ordinary spasmodic asthma, and embraces various forms of periodic influenza known as hay fever, summer catarrh, summer fever, rose cold, rag-weed fever, etc. Hay fever chiefly affects the upper air-passages, causing difficult breathing and discharge of mucus, and occurs periodically, usually at a fixed date in spring, summer or autumn," says Dr. Bell.

"The best medical authorities are agreed that in every case of hay fever two things are present: first, an exciting agent or irritant, and second, a nervous system predisposed by debility to the influence of this irritant. While some cases of hay-fever may be caused by light, heat, dust, etc., the chief irritant is the pollen of grasses and flowers, which floating in the air, is inhaled in breathing. But no difference what the exciting cause of hay fever, it is a well established fact that the disease is of spasmodic nervous origin and of the same class as ordinary asthma."

Some Exceptional Cases

"While all cases of asthma and hay-fever are alike in that the underlying cause of the disease is to be found in the nervous system there is sometimes a great difference in regard to the nature of the symptoms and severity of the malady," continues Dr. Bell. "In addition to this, asthma and hay fever usually produce very evil effects on the heart, kidneys, and organs of respiration, so that there are in most cases complications to be met and overcome before a complete recovery can be effected. It is not reasonable to expect immediate results when the disease has been attacking the sufferer perhaps for years, impoverishing the blood, injuring the structure of the affected organs, and undermining the nervous system, and there is really no good reason why the patient should become discouraged if, under these circumstances immediate relief is not speedily effected," he further says.

skin, but later a fine tan appears. Of course care must be taken not to 'sunburn' the baby. In hot weather the sun bath must be given in early a.m. or late p.m."

"The sun bath is just as important as the water bath and has the great advantage of being a fresh air treatment too."

"The older child, the 'runabout baby' can have his sun bath out of doors at play in warm weather. Here again care must be taken that the older child especially does not get a burn. A good way is to go without hat and stockings a longer period each day until a good tan of face and legs is acquired. Then by using a bathing suit arms and legs can be completely tanned. Finally, all clothing except a pair of brief trunks can be omitted and the whole body splendidly tanned."

Sunlight For Babies

"Every baby has his 'place in the sun'—see that he gets his share of sunshine and begin early. One month of age is not too young and we do not need to wait for spring to come. Many a careful mother takes considerable trouble to keep her young baby in an airy, sunny room, but she does not realize that sunshine coming through glass loses its wonderful power," states Dr. Merrill Champion of the Massachusetts Department of Public Health.

"To benefit the baby and help to prevent rickets, sunlight must fall directly on the baby's skin. The way to go at it is to begin gradually. In winter clothe the baby comfortably, put him in his crib or carriage and put him in a wide open window in the direct sunlight. The first day leave his hands out and push his bonnet well back. Ten or fifteen minutes is enough for this first 'sun visit.' Turn him once or twice so that his face gets equally exposed on both cheeks, but not so the sun shines uncomfortably in his eyes."

"Each following day increase the time of exposure three or four minutes and increase the area of skin exposed. In cold weather exposure has to be very gradual, but in warm weather it can be increased fairly rapidly. If he can be out on a porch or in a yard so much the better. Push the sleeves up and get the bonnet off the head gradually. Then begin on the feet—leave them bare two or three minutes the first time, longer the second time, and so on, exposing a little more of the legs each day. Gradually baby becomes used to a 'complete' sunbath, i.e., the whole body is exposed to the sun's direct rays. At first there is only slight reddening of the

DR. HERMANC'S MEDICINE FOR ASTHMA
REBUILDS NERVE HEALTH AND STRENGTH

The Logical, Safe Way to Treat This Disease of the Nervous System

Dr. Hermance's Medicine for asthma does its work by rebuilding the health of the nervous system. Most people know that asthma is a disease due to a run-down weakened condition of the nerves and doctors agree that the most effective remedies are those which build up new health and strength. Being entirely free from narcotic drugs or stimulants Dr. Hermance's Medicine gives lasting relief, not merely temporary ease of breathing. That is also the reason why it is a safe medicine to take and why so many people have found increasing benefit from its use during the long period of years in which it has proved its value. Letters from asthma victims who have found relief by taking this medicine have been received from all over the country. If you suffer from asthma, you should begin taking Dr. Hermance's Medicine without delay. Sold by Franklin H. Stacey, Druggist.

Egypt.

One of the most remarkable monuments ever erected is the Great Pyramid near Gizeh, Egypt. The weight of this pyramid or the length of time taken to erect it has never been satisfactorily calculated. It is seven hundred and sixty feet square at base by four hundred and eighty feet in height. Modern tendencies in monument work are inclined toward simplicity and massiveness in design and construction. We are equipped to embody your own ideas of design in the memorial you seek to have built. Let us furnish you a design and estimate.
